

ABOUT DR. GILO KWESI LOGAN PRESIDENT & FOUNDER

Dr. Gilo Kwesi Logan is an internationally recognized consultant, author, and educator. With experience spanning over twenty years and throughout twenty-three countries, Dr. Logan has provided expertly researched and demonstrably effective leadership and equity consultation to multinational corporations, nonprofit organizations, school districts, college campuses, and government agencies.

In an increasingly diverse, interconnected, and at times, seemingly polarized society, Dr. Logan helps leaders and teams develop cultural intelligence to achieve their goals of inclusive leadership, recruiting and retaining diverse talent, and facilitating an equitable, inclusive, and antiracist organizational culture, for the overall growth of their business and employees. At the heart of the work is the belief that businesses and teams thrive when its employees can be critically reflective and can safely engage in thoughtful, productive, and deliberate discussions on diversity, equity, and inclusion.

As a public speaker, Dr. Logan combines this professional specialization in multicultural education, with his research expertise in racial identity development and own personal history. Growing up in Evanston, Illinois, he learned of social justice not from watching the news, but from watching his father serve as the first Black police chief of Evanston and go onto serve as a bodyguard to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Clients include The MacArthur Foundation, McDonald's Corporation, American Bar Association, Rotary International, National Geographic Learning-Cengage, Northwestern University, DePaul University, Illinois Holocaust Museum & Education Center, Wilmette School District 39, Cass School District 63, Burr Ridge School District 180, Round Lake School District 116, Global Youth Leadership Institute, Chicago Metropolitan Agency of Planning, the Evanston Police Department, Lake County Government, and more. Dr. Logan's work and words have been featured in The Chicago Tribune, Ebony Magazine, Cosmopolitan Magazine, Kia Ora FM (New Zealand), Radio Kledu (Mali), The Fiji Sun (Fiji Islands), Chicago Sun-Times, Financial Survival Network, and others.

Dr. Logan holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration and Marketing (Southern Illinois University), a Master's degree in Elementary Education (National Louis University), and a Doctorate in Adult and Continuing Education (National Louis University). In addition to his consultancy and public speaking work, Dr. Logan serves as adjunct lecturer of Diversity and Social Justice at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago, IL. Further, he is a member of the Illinois Diversity Council, a National Diversity Council Certified Diversity Professional, a Workforce Diversity Institute Certified Diversity Practitioner, a certified Family Life educator, and the founding former executive director of S.O.U.L. Creations.

Dr. Logan is the author of the Logan Uhuru Model of Self to SelfEthnic Liberatory Transformation. He is also a recipient of the World of Poetry's Golden Poet Award for his poem, When You Think. Dr. Logan is currently writing his next book, R.I.D. Racism: Racial Identity Development for Combating Racism, coming spring of 2023.

In his spare time, Dr. Logan can be found listening to and making music, eating a bowl of vegan popcorn, working out, gardening, and spending time with his wife, Miah, and their three sons.

For more detailed information please visit www.DrLoganSpeaks.com